

The Game

140th edition

Margaret-Ann Simoneta, PhD Scholar.

Harvard University Class of 2019 and 2024
(A.M.), Social Anthropology and Popular Culture Studies

harvardmagazine and therealmargaretann
Tommy Richman • MILLION DOLLAR BABY

harvardmagazine Next week, @harvardfootball will take on Yale in the 140th playing of The Game—one of the oldest rivalries in the American sports scene.

Margaret-Ann Simonetta '19 and '24 @therealmargaretann is a PhD Scholar specializing in Fandom, Anthropology, and Cultural Studies. She's taking us through the unique and powerful fan culture that surrounds this storied match—a football game that has led to some of the most memorable wins and losses in Ivy League history.

Who will come out on top next week? Watch live on @espn Saturday, November 23rd a 12pm ET.

Go Crimson.

Video clips and photos credit: Harvard Athletics

#harvard #harvarduniversity

Edited • 1w

lincolngeraghty Excellent stuff! Football fandom can be hardcore... fandom is a way of life for some

1w 1 like Reply

— View replies (1)

stevenhawaiian See you at The Game!

1w 1 like Reply

Liked by keithkaplan and 41 others

November 20

Add a comment...

Post